PROFILE CV

I DON'T TAKE PHOTOGRAPH
I MAKE IT..

Flanegan Bainon, born and raised Malaysian Borneo. A very mysterious island shaped his Curiosity and Inconventional way of thinking. Started out as Graphic Designer before he further his studies in Photography at Royal Melbourne Institute of Technology (RMIT) University, Australia. He discovered his passion in Photography when he was in Europe in 2006.

Flanegan began his career as Press/Documentary Photographer, working with a local online news for 1 and half years and also teaching Photography at a local design college.

To seek new challenges he moved to Tokyo, Japan where he began assisting Hiraga Masaaki for a few months and ended up become Photo-Assistant and Junior Photographer for d'ArC Model and Factory Management. He was given freedom to do his freelancing work & at the same time. This has change his aesthetic and inspired his shift towards Portraiture photography.

The simplicity and minimalism of his work is a reflection of his appreciation in all forms of life.
